

Delaware County Real Estate Lawyers at Eckell Sparks Handle Property Assessment Appeals

With a county-wide reassessment of residential property values underway, many are concerned about the impact it will have on their future property taxes. It has been estimated that the majority of homeowners in Delaware County are paying taxes on homes that are significantly overvalued.

There are many factors that go into a home's value. Age, size, amenities, classification and the value of surrounding homes can all affect the value of your property. In addition, property assessments are not done on a regular basis. It is very possible that the value of your home may have decreased since it was last assessed. To learn more, read our blog.
